2016-2017 19th Great Season

84, Charing Cross Road:

Adapted for performance from Helene Hanff's novel of the same title

It all begins in 1949 when American author Helene Hanff posts a letter to a bookshop at 84, Charing Cross Road, London, England, inquiring about second hand books. Her letter is answered by a very proper bookseller, who signs himself F.P.D.. What begins as a business arrangement between Hanff and F.P.D. grows into a warm and charming long-distance friendship, lasting two decades. All at 84, Charing Cross Road come to delight in Helene's sarcastic and witty letters which touch on topics as diverse as post-war food shortages in Britain, the making of Yorkshire pudding, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the coronation of Elizabeth II.

"unmitigated delight"... "a real life love story"... "a timeless period piece"!
